The New Book

By FRANCES JENNINGS

WITH her usual fever Adela Rogers St. Johns paints a vivid picture of youth on the canvas of modern life in her new book "The Single Standard." As in "Skylark" and "A Free Soul," two earlier books, she discusses a problem of modern youth, this time voicing a reactionary opinion on the question of the single moral standard for both men and women.

Arden Stuart, Mrs. St. Johns' latest heroine, is firm believer in the single standard. Intoxicated with love and life she lives with the freedom of man and the idealism of a woman. Coming from what the sophisticated world calls a "good" family, despite the estrangement of her father and mother, Arden is not estranged but remains the pet of her particular social circle of wealth and fashion even after she has wholeheartedly lived the life of freedom in which she believes.

After marriage and the birth of her son, however, Arden has a rude awakening. What convention and her family had not done for her is accomplished when she reflects that her son will one day be a man and surprise his mother with a man's critical understanding.

The story, like the others Mrs. St. Johns has written, glitters with modern youth, its problems, its courageous working out of its own particular problem.

"MAKING OF MERCHANT"
BY JESSE H. SPRAGUE
"The Making of a Merchant" by Jesse Hainsford Sprague is a late April publication of William Morrow & Co.

"FRIEND OF ANTEAUS"
BOOK-OF-MONTH CHOICE
Within a short time "The Friend of Antaeus," by Gerald Hopkins, will be offered by Dutton's as the Dutton Book-of-the-Month for May. The new book is a drama of three lives—a self-sufficient bachelor—a frustrated woman—a totally suppressed, unimpaired wife. It is a daring choice as a Book-of-the-Month because of its very lack of daring: a sensational choice because it hides its sensation; a contribution to the novels of 1934 because it presents the reader with the equality of men and women, along with vivid characters not dependent on speed, thrill or doubling of crime color for their successful appearance.

The author, a 36 year old Oxford graduate, has two previous novels, the first written when he was 28. They are, "A City in the Foreground" and "An Unknown Quantity."

"The Friend of Antaeus" is the second Dutton Book-of-the-Month, the first having been "Roads and Mud," a Hines Danes novel, recommended also to the Book-of-the-Month Club of New York City for April reading.

"WE SING DIANA"
IS FIRST NOVEL
A first novel by Wanda Fraiden Niff, "We Sing Diana," is creating quite a stir in the literary world. The publishers, Houghton Mifflin Co., are unusually enthusiastic about this story of a "woman's revolt against a woman's world," this novel "for every woman who ever goes to a boarding school, college or university and likewise a book for every man who has known either feminine sympathy or provocation."

"FRIEND OF ANTEAUS"
BOOK-OF-MONTH CHOICE
Within a short time "The Friend of Antaeus," by Gerald Hopkins, will be Ladies" is a granddaughter of Jacob Abbott, author of the Hobbie books and lives at Hobbie Farm in Wilton, N. H. Her girlhood was spent in Cambridge in an atmosphere of books and authors as her father was for many years editor of the Literary World and a friend of Lowell, Longfellow, the Ball and some other interesting figures in the university city. Probably no other American author has received as many prizes in short story competitions as has the author of "Love and the Ladies."

ENGLISH CRITICS APPRAISE AUTHORS
In "Contemporary American Authors," a March publication of Henry Holt & Co., a number of noted English critics, including J. C. Spence, Milton Waldman, J. B. Priestley, Gilbert Sargent and others, appraise Dreiser, Hemingway, Willa Cather, Edith Wharton, Robinson, Robinson, Edith Wharton, Robert Frost and Sinclair Lewis.

"WAR DRUMS" FIRST NOVEL OF WRITER
"War Drums," the first novel of Herbert Ravenel Sias, the South Carolina essayist whose nature sketches have made him a leading figure in the group of contemporary southern writers, has just been published by Doubleday, Doran. Charles Towne is the setting of this tale of the colonies, of the woodmen, Indians, trappers, swordsmen and privateers from the Spanish Main who gave its color to this little red brick between the wilderness and the sea.

The celebrated story of the Rothschild family appears in "The Rise of the House of Rothschild," a new book by Count Egon Caesar Corti, brought out by Cosmopolitan April 21.

SEE LEWIS HIMSELF IN HIS NOVEL
Friends of Sinclair Lewis will recognize in his new book, "The Man Who Knew Coolidge," Harcourt, Brace & Co., the author himself in some of his best moments. Mr. Lewis has the gift of reciting monologues and might have been an actor had he chosen the stage instead of literature. During the writing of his famous novels he has often been known to recite interminable monologues in which he often succeeded in looking like his characters.

SUICIDE CRIME FOR ALL NATIONS, CREEDS

University of Chicago Woman Writes Book on Human Destruction Problems

Chicago, May 3.—Tracing the history of suicide back as far as 2000 years from the present day, Dr. Ruth S. Cavan of the University of Chicago has presented the question in all its forms in a book recently issued.

Throughout all the years and regions and races the scholar has found suicide to be a sin, regarded lightly in some parts of the world, but the gravest of crimes in other countries.

Mainly, she said, suicide comes from a failure of an individual to make adjustment to a social environment, and a feeling of isolation of the mind which relief is seen only in self-destruction.

Always Crime

is crime, according to the authorities.

DR. C. J. ALTMAIER

suicide was approved in some cases by one of the greatest and most powerful religions of today. Of this she says "at first the church approval of certain forms of suicide—to procure martyrdom, to avoid apostasy or to retain virginity. Famous for suicide in the last instance were Domina and her daughters, and Pelagia, who was later made a saint."

From the general religious point of view, Dr. Cavan points out, suicide was always a serious crime, and a violation of the social order.

"The Greek language hardly distinguishes between self-murder and the murder of kin (the worst offense)," Dr. Cavan states. From 600 B. C. to the end of the first century after Christ, about 600 years, suicide flourished in the same general ratio as moral customs decayed until Christianity almost eliminated self-destruction.

During this period in Greece suicide became almost a dogma among certain philosophical sects, she said. The control of the state over the individual weakened as death it came the right of personal to decree their own conduct. Suicide, then, was purely a personal matter. Suicide tended to become a matter of eliminating all pains and miseries, many of them trivial ones, she stated.

Stories Taught Suicide
In the tumultuous period in which the Roman Empire sunk into a gradual decline and decadence, the stories taught suicide as a "natural means of ending life that had become intolerable," according to Dr. Cavan.

"Christianity came and erected a stern control over the individual, succeeding in counteracting the freedom and suicides of the past eras. "Gradually," she said, "all suicides were condemned by St. Ambrose, by St. Jerome and St. Augustine between 340 and 430 A. D."

After the Renaissance in Europe the attitude that suicide was sinful was challenged by a number of philosophers who gave many claims to its excellent qualities, she declared.

This feeling for suicide was gradually worn down and the present conditions were introduced.

Today there are about 12,000 suicides annually in the United States, according to Dr. Cavan.

KAISER'S FORMER CHATEAU IS SAVED BY FRENCH

Metz—Here's proof that ex-Kaiser Wilhelm never did any wood chopping when, as Emperor of Germany, he lived at the Chateau d'Orville, near here, which reverted to France with Lorraine.

Maitre Verlet, Parisian lawyer, recently took a lease on the chateau. The heavily-wooded park around it seemed too thick for his fancy so he ordered foresters to cut away several trees.

Hawaiian Music on SPECIAL FEATURES FOR SUNDAY Program for Saturday

Music characteristic of far-away Hawaii will be included in the National Broadcasting Co. red network broadcast Saturday night at 8 o'clock by the South Sea Islanders. The program will be directed by Norman Clark, who, as the South Sea Island Tenor, will sing two solos. The first number on the program will be "One, Two, Three, Four."

A half-hour broadcast over the red network at 8 o'clock Saturday night by the Little Orchestra will feature selections suggestive of spring. Grieg's "An Der Fruhlung," which remains undimmed by the passage of many springs will open the program.

"My Ohio Home" will mark the world tour musical program of the Twin Pairs of Harmony broadcast through the red network Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock.

The overture to Massenet's "Phedre" will open the program of Shubert music over the blue network Saturday night at 10 o'clock. Louis "Liber-trous" will be the second number to be played.

A program of songs and instrumental numbers will be sung and played by Dorothy Howe, soprano, and the Merry Three in a broadcast Saturday night at 9:30 o'clock over the blue network.

A baritone solo with its accompanying guitar will be presented by

IN YOUR GARDEN

CHINA'S NEW BLUE ANNUAL CHINA has given us a new annual of unusual beauty and effective use in the garden picture in the Chinese forget-me-not or cynoglossum amabile. It is a rich, true, pure blue, a color that is rather rare in annuals. Most of the blues have considerable purple in them. The cynoglossum gives the same intense blue as the alkanet or anemone among perennials and somewhat resembles them but blooms from seed the first year and is a sure-fire annual. Once established it will grow freely and a supply will always be available.

The individual flowers are small, somewhat resembling the forget-me-not but they are produced in large and graceful sprays. It is a beautiful material for cutting. It will grow in partial shade as well as in full sun. The plants reach a height of eighteen inches and should be spaced a foot apart. It makes a beautiful bed or mass in the border and groups of half a dozen plants scattered about give a fine blue effect all over the garden.

As the seed is good sized, much trouble may be saved by sowing two or three in a hill a foot apart, and then pulling out all but the one strongest plant. It is a plant deserving a wide use in the garden and will be one of the standard annuals when it becomes better known as no other annual gives such a sheet of intense blue.

Carrying out the fine blue of the cynoglossum, some of the libellula may be used for an edging to the bed, using either a similar coloring of rich blue or a lighter or darker one by way of contrast. Blue stocks and blue larkspur and other blue subjects for the annual summer display, but neither

Guy Ellis, Agassiz, Is Member of O. S. U. Pershing Rifles

Columbus, May 4.—One of the 21 students of Ohio State University, recently elected to membership in the Pershing Rifles, a basic military or organization, was Guy B. Ellis, a resident of Agassiz.

Ellis is a freshman in the College of Liberal Arts at the university.

Pershing Rifles, named after Gen. John A. Pershing, is composed of the most promising cadets in the Reserve Officers Training Corps at the university. The organization is one of the best drilled units in the corps at Ohio State.

Queen Elizabeth (1533-1909) always bore the title "King of France," asserting that if by the action of the Salic law she could not be queen she would be king. The Kings of England bore the title of Kings of France for 412 years—until 1800.

The term "mildewproof" for coats originated in the British navy about two hundred years ago. The men who were going through a course in training to become officers were assigned quarters amidships on the lower deck. Hence the name.

CYNOGLOSSUM AMABILE, THE NEW CHINESE FORGET-ME-NOT, IS A FINE BLUE ANNUAL.

gives the same purity of color as the Chinese forget-me-not.

Another useful blue annual is the lupine. The annual forms are much more certain to bloom than the perennial sorts which are very sensitive to drought and hot weather and do not thrive in many sections of the country. The annuals need plenty of moisture but will not quit under hot weather conditions as do the perennials.

Has Your Husband Got Indigestion?

Nothing creates domestic discord quicker than an attack of indigestion, and nothing gets rid of indigestion quicker than Bismarck's Magnesia. No man can be sweet tempered, good natured or even fair minded when his stomach is constantly sick, sour, easy, and upset with after-eating distress. If your husband has stomach trouble, neither could nor pity him, but help him by seeing that he has a supply of Bismarck's Magnesia (either powder or tablets) constantly at hand. A teaspoonful of powder or two tablets taken in a little water after meals will instantly neutralize the acids in his stomach that are causing his trouble and he can enjoy his meals with no more fear of indigestion. Bismarck's Magnesia is the special form of Magnesia used by thousands to neutralize stomach acidity and quickly overcome indigestion—does not combine with Milk, Carbonate, Baking Soda or Citrate of Magnesia. Insist on Bismarck's. Its action is safe, prompt and sure and it can be obtained at small cost from any reliable drug store.

Old Mother Earth Losing Her Shape, Worried Scientists Seek Explanation

Washington, May 4—Old mother earth is getting out of shape—losing her figure of a couple of billions of years ago.

Research by scientists developed the earth is getting something out of shape, so to speak, but it hasn't been definitely discovered.

Explanation advanced by Cornell University is the variable rate of rotation of the earth on its axis, although the rate of rotation of the earth is believed to be subject to secular changes in position and the source of these fluctuations have been traced to the variable rate of rotation of the earth. Evidence from star observation is being added.

Dr. Bowie said that the land areas of the earth, generally concentrated on one side, are three miles higher than the surface of the water. He suggested the theory that when these higher areas are opposite the moon and sun the rate of rotation of the earth is accelerated, slowing down as they turn away from the attractive bodies.

The force of the attraction is shown by the fact that at new moon the radius of the earth increases a foot, although the expansion passes rapidly as the influence of the lunar orb subsides.

Whether the variable rotation is to any degree responsible for earthquakes, such as recently rocked the Balkans, is under investigation, although Bowie is inclined to doubt this theory.

Dr. Bowie said that the land areas of the earth, generally concentrated on one side, are three miles higher than the surface of the water. He suggested the theory that when these higher areas are opposite the moon and sun the rate of rotation of the earth is accelerated, slowing down as they turn away from the attractive bodies.

The force of the attraction is shown by the fact that at new moon the radius of the earth increases a foot, although the expansion passes rapidly as the influence of the lunar orb subsides.

"Just Kids Safety Club" Members are Urged to Keep Pledge in Mind as they Answer Call of Spring

(By Just Kids Safety Club Editor)
KIDS, you must be careful! Such terrible things are happening every day to boys and girls who aren't careful when they are playing. And now the warm weather season is here and your parents are warning more than ever about you since the season is calling you out-of-doors. Some of your games and sports which are so popular are also highly dangerous. It is their very danger that thrills you and causes the death toll in your city to mount each year.

The "Just Kids Safety Club" was organized by The Star just for you and your safety. If you've remembered your pledge, then it isn't for you that this article is written—it is for those who, without thinking, run into the streets, "hook" ice wagons, and all the other things that the average live American boys and girls "go in for" in the summer.

I wonder why a parked motorcycle has such an appeal for boys? They'll work and work and work just to see what they can do, but the instant it starts, there's almost sure to be a serious accident. Parked automobiles aren't generally such a fascination.

Risky Pastimes

One of the greatest thrills in the summer is to hop ice wagons and "steal" rides on automobiles and street cars. These are also some of the most dangerous pranks that can be indulged. A sudden lurch of the machine or wagon, and a small body is hurled to the ground, perhaps taken to the hospital, or maybe beyond the aid of doctors and nurses. Kids, it doesn't pay to run such risks for a chunk of ice or a few minutes' ride.

If you have friends who are expert swimmers, and if some older person who could be depended upon in an emergency would go along, there wouldn't be so many unnecessary drownings this summer among those of you who can't swim. Do you realize what it means to go into the water and not know a single stroke or even how to float? Better stay away from the pools till you can swim.

Miss Hazel Butler, of Upper Sandusky, spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gilley.

Mrs. Roy Butler is full of the go.

was as solid as they look, and many times when kids lean out over the water or go racing along these delightful summer haunts, don't know that oftentimes these banks are mere crusts out over the water, and that any minute they may crumble and send the happy-go-lucky youngster over the bank and into the water.

Teaches Caution
You see, belonging to the "Safety Club" means a lot besides just remembering to look up and down before crossing the street. It means being careful everywhere you go, considering just what price you'll have to pay for that few minutes of dangerous fun, and then save your mothers and fathers so much worry when you are playing out of doors this summer.

It's you kids who belong to our Club who must set an example for those who don't belong. How about it, can you do it?

FOUR MARION MEN ELIGIBLE FOR PAROLE

Prisoners Before State Board Set for Prisoners at Reformatory

Four men sentenced to the Marion reformatory, from Marion approximately a year ago, are now eligible for parole to the State Prison and Parole, according to the institution. The men are John Kuntz, Raymond, Leslie West and Pearl.

The parole for the four men was set for May 8.

Needles was convicted of carrying concealed weapons, sentenced on June 8, 1927, with issuing checks without proper authority, sentenced on May 27, 1927, on a charge of stealing automobile, drew Pearl, sentenced on June 8, 1927, on a charge of grand larceny, charged on June 8, 1927.

Insurance. A man entered in common with Tom Vero against the Insurance Co. of Pittsburgh $1,500 as a result of a fire.

fire which destroyed the plaintiff's household furnishings. According to the petition the fire occurred at 802 W. Center-st on Feb. 19. The furniture, which was insured by the defendant company, was totally destroyed. Vero claims in the petition. The furniture was insured on Jan. 17. Carhart & Warner are attorneys for the plaintiff.

Sue for Divorce

Wilbur F. Davis, charging gross neglect and extreme cruelty, has filed suit for divorce against Ruth K. Davis in Common Pleas Court. According to the petition the couple were married on Jan. 3, 1927, in Marion, Ind., and have one child, two years old. The plaintiff seeks custody of the child.

Named Administratrix

Josephine Herr has been named administratrix of the estate of Patrick Herr.

Marriage licenses were issued to two couples in Probate Court yesterday afternoon. They are:

Henry J. Corcoran, 50, blacksmith, and Kate Spahr, 50, housekeeper, both of Marion; Harry Black, 42, laborer, stockman, and Margery Ann Hoffman, 30, Marion, tailoress.

PROBE ESCAPE

Board Will Question Guards of Dayton Workhouse

Dayton, May 4.—All guards of the Dayton Workhouse were to be haled before the City Welfare Board for questioning today as to the escape yesterday of Harold Bligh, 31, of Cleveland.

Bligh, a federal prisoner serving a 10-day sentence on a charge of violating the national prohibition act, was alleged to have walked through the door of the city workhouse in which he had been confined a month. The door was unlocked when his escape was discovered.

PROBE COLLISION

Eleven Persons Injured When Motorbus Is Wrecked

Detroit, May 4.—State police today were investigating a collision between a Chicago-bound Detroit motorbus and an automobile last night in which 11 persons were injured.

The injured are: Elmer Weller, 33, of the Roosevelt Hotel, Chicago, driver of the bus, suffering lacerations; his wife, Bertha, 30, seriously injured; Joseph Mettich, 705 Milwaukee St., Milwaukee, seriously injured; Joseph Duley, 50, Detroit, broken arm; Frank Janssen, 30 of 2224 Cortlandt Chicago, lacerations; James Williams, 55, of St. Louis, dislocated shoulder and broken elbow; Louis Murray, Detroit, lacerations; Manuel Saurino, of South Chicago, and Mike Kites of South Haven, lacerations and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Young, Detroit, were given first aid treatment.

George Casper, 30, of Rockport, 11, driver of the car which collided with the bus, was not injured.

Merry Connie Talmadge

NEWS OF MOVIES IN CINEMA CAPITAL

Returns to Hollywood

BY LORELLA O. PARSONS

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—(Summer, more vivacious and with enough gaiety to make her the life of any party, Connie Talmadge returns to Hollywood. In the midst of her merry quips and dings at matrons, Connie has been in session with Joseph Schickel, discussing her next picture.

Rumblings around Hollywood are that Connie will play in "The Last of Mrs. Tennyson," a picture of great interest. What a contrast! Ernest Lubitsch, John Barrymore and Constance Talmadge! It doesn't mean that Connie is to be played out in a corner as a mere background for the great Barrymore either. A very good part has been written in for her by Hans Kraly. I hear four leading women have been up for the part, but Lubitsch favors Connie.

DAVID BEASLEY still continues to be the greatest showman. He saw at once the possibilities of starting Estelle Taylor and Jack Dempsey. He saw also what could be done with the right play. His business is in a money market, submitted to him by Max Marcin, dealing with a "strong" man and a prize fighter. Jack actually fights in one act. Can't you see what they will do even to please New York? And now M. J. Delaney will stage it. Miss Taylor has arranged her contract so that she can leave in two weeks, if necessary, to make a picture.

She will have an understudy ready to step in and take her part if the picture opportunity knocks at her door. That is what she thinks of Hollywood and the movies. The Dempsey, a leave for home next week.

AFTER the flood of letters received by Samuel Goldwyn recounting him of being short-changed in securing Kenneth Coleman and Verna Barker, I was a bit curious myself. "Why did you do it?" I asked. "The history of cinema," said Sam, "has always ended unhappily. If they continued together too long, I want to separate them. Coleman and Verna Barker while they are at the zenith of their glory. Who wait until they start sliding downward?"

In other words, Sam believes in keeping the public wanting more. I have just told that Sam is negotiating for the "Honey" Joseph Conrad's story, for Mr. Coleman. What a marvelous vehicle for the silent and mysterious Mr. Coleman!

My attention has been attracted to a girl who takes part in the fashion show at the Montmartre each week. She is the prototype of the girl Charles Dana Gibson made famous back in the 1920's.

Not that I'd have you think I remember that far back, but I have seen the drawings. Imagine my astonishment to see this girl on the David Warfield Griffith set. I inquired her name and it took eight or nine people to enlighten me. Her name is Geraldine Brock and she has some of the charm that has made her famous. I don't think she is a very good actress, but I can see she might. I am calling her attention to it. I think she is worth a try.

THE movement to give the youngsters a chance in Hollywood is stronger than ever. It's probably not as altruistic as it is that they are trying to cut down expenses.

Personally, I don't believe the producers can make discoveries among the unknowns and always pick out winners. Occasionally, here and there, we may find a boy or girl who registers beautifully and has some talent, but his out of the picture will be applied and discredited work will go for naught just because of this craze to find strange faces upon the public.

Look this is one of the unknowns who is to have a picture in "The Fleet's In!"

Mr. Ohio wasn't picked up, however, just by chance. He has been at the Fox Company for some time. Met St. Clair is giving him an opportunity to show his next picture.

THERE have been many blondes in the films, but none of them has remained in our memory longer than Arline Prety.

Arline's name is no stranger to me. I know what I mean. She looks the part. She hasn't had such a good look in a long time. She has been in the last year simply because producers have a way of forgetting an actress if she is not in pictures constantly.

Now Arline has a job at the Columbia Studios, where she is playing an important part in "Caught in the Whirlpool." Leave it to Harry Colin to cover any good prospect.

BETTY BRUNSON is due for plenty of laughs these next few months. It's all settled now that she is to play opposite Al Johnson in "The Singing Fool." Johnson, more than one I know, is as funny of stage as on the screen. He is a real comedian. He is a real comedian. He is a real comedian.

English, the hit was met with much laughter on the part of both the French and the English. On the boat was also a boat, pushed by the duck, the man of the swimmer, the weather was pretty, and the man who had written that she had performed the feat, watching her do it through a blind telescope.

APPLICATIONS SENT TO CIGARET DEALERS

License Renewals Required for

Marion County

Applications for the renewal of cigarette licenses are being mailed today from the office of County Auditor Earl L. Thomas. According to Thomas all those who expect to continue selling cigarettes after May 28 must return the applications, filled out and accompanied by a notary public, before May 21.

Applications were mailed to 112 retailers and two wholesale dealers. The total license fee is $20 a year and the wholesale fee is $200. Thomas stated.

JIMMY CHANSEL FAKER
Even his holiday makers at Montclair, N. J., at the English colony during the recent carnival by displaying a boat, according to the London woman doctor who "saw" the English criminal on a boat. The boat showed the figure of a woman holding on to the edge of a gang duck by whose side she stood. As Jack in the French language, "know" is as funny of stage as on the screen. He is a real comedian. He is a real comedian. He is a real comedian.

English, the hit was met with much laughter on the part of both the French and the English. On the boat was also a boat, pushed by the duck, the man of the swimmer, the weather was pretty, and the man who had written that she had performed the feat, watching her do it through a blind telescope.

YOU'LL LIKE TRADING AT SCHAFFNERS

"Trade-in" Information---

If you bought a new car, or a new piano, you would of course turn in the old one as part payment on the new.

You can do the same thing on furniture and rugs. It is being done every day.

Through our Exchange Department you can trade in an old settee or couch, kitchen cupboard or any other article, or articles, either as part payment on a new article or articles, of the same thing turned in, or as part payment on anything else—a lamp, a bed, or dining room or any other room suite, a rug or whatever your need.

Great plan, and scores of Marion families have already taken advantage of it. Ask about it of the man at the front door, or telephone us. It is the ideal way to bring your furnishings up to date at less cost—especially at this time.

Manager Bacon Gives Inside Dope On Eagle Ball Team

Springfield Aggregation To Open Local Season Sunday Afternoon At Lincoln Park

Hard Schedule Being Arranged as Local Nine Plans To Win Semi-Pro Honors of This Section; Veteran Players Will Be Back in Line-Up

KARL R. McILROY
Sports Editor, The Star

How did you guess it? Of course the Marion Eagles baseball club is planning on winning the semi-professional championship of the state again this year for didn't the Francis Bacon, the big street man and ball manager of Mt. Cleod say so just yesterday?

Shame on you sister, don't show your ignorance. Some of the best teams in the state are to be brought here during the summer months. The schedule being arranged calls for games with the Somerset Grays, Firestones of Akron, Cleveland, Massillon, Lima, Toledo, Maumee and Chardonville. Springfield will play here Sunday.

Easy over this way and I will tell you in another secret that certainly will turn the boys green with envy. A big league outfit is being considered as a possible attraction later in the season. That is if Marion fans pass through the gate in sufficient numbers to make such a step justifiable.

Poor Weather
What kind of a line-up is the Eagle boys going to have? Wait just a minute will you, give a fellow a chance. You remember the rain we had about Easter and a few of the Sundays before and after? Well those conditions were not just what could be called ideal for baseball and the local team have flirited with the horsehide but one Sunday.

So taking everything into consideration Marion fans are ignorant of the starting line-up. In view of this fact Manager Bacon took his pen in hand—er was it his pencil—and as a result of his labors we have the following "inside" dope on the team:

"Marion can expect one of the best teams this year which has ever played on the Lincoln Park diamond. All of last year's regulars appeared to be in excellent shape and hit the old horsehide at all corners of the lot in the practice sessions.

"Price, who covers the center field garden hit hard over time he came to bat and looks to be in excellent shape. Brown, has been hitting the ball squarely and demonstrates that he still retains his old speed in the field and on the base.

"A newcomer to the outfield and to the Marion public will be a hard hitting left hander by the name of Apple who has been playing around Lima and Bellefontaine during the past few years. He is noted for his slugging ability and is able to crush anything that comes in his section of the field. In a game played last week he garnered three hits out of a possible four times at bat. With the signing of this player Marion will have one of the hardest hitting outfielders of any team in the state.

"The infield problem has been practically solved by the addition of several new players. First one has been brought in from the outfield to play short which position he has been playing for quite a number of years. This youngster can make anything hit between third and second and thereby cutting up many sure hits. Harry is what many might call a natural born hitter, as there are very few pitchers who have been able to fool him. Time is a small ball player and will take care of about better than any players of recent years in spite of the good work done by Rizzo last year and who has signed up with the Lima team this year.

Buckland at Third
The hot corner will be taken care of by the old reliable Buckland, who has been hitting hard and filling his position in good shape this spring. Buck has his eye on the ball, as was demonstrated Sunday as all of the fans can look forward to seeing third base taken care of in good shape this coming season.

"Bacon will direct the team from second. He has been working out for the past few weeks and will be in good shape for the opening game. "Still, the giant first baseman from Galton will hold down the keystone each Sunday. He is six feet and four inches in height, besides having a long reach and will be a great help for his hitting which will fit in well with the other hard slugging members of the team.

"The catching situation has at last been licked as it has always been one of the team's weakest points. Mays will draw the back stopping assignment Sunday. He has a rifle shot throw to second and knows how to handle a pitcher. Mays has played a lot of baseball in the west and should be a tower of strength to the infield if he is given up to advanced reports and early work outs. Back stopper, the premier catcher of this Western and of Toledo semi-pro circles, will also break in behind the bat Sunday. Back was rated as the smartest college catcher in the state when he was in school. He can throw and knows how to play smart baseball. Sunday he hit a ball to the center field fence on a fly which is no mean feat for a player as early in the season. It will be mighty interesting to the public to see which of these catchers will make good this year.

Need W. H. Pich
"Still, the late pitcher of the House of David team which toured the country last year, will start the game. Harry knows how to pitch as the batter never gets any kind of a ball he likes to hit when Stull does the pitching. He has one of the best left handed pitchers in the central west as it is mighty hard for any base runner to get much of a lead off of first base when he is on the mound.

"Joe Conroy will be carried as a utility player this year because of his ability to hit and play most any position on the team. Joe is a valuable man to have in a pinch and will probably be seen in quite a few games this year.

"Lefty Reeler, Western College star and ranking pitcher of the state will join the team in June. Lefty is practically signed up with Connie Mack's team and will join this big league club after his graduation in another year as Marion can rest assured that they will have one of the best left handers performing for them in this section of the country.

"So summarizing of the preseason dope Marion will have a stronger team this year than they have had in the past. This lineup will give the fans a high brand of baseball this summer."

Papers Signed Only After Long Conference With Man Who Retired Ex-Champion

BY DAVID J. WALSH

MISS MRS. JACK Dempsey, who would neither say more nor sign a theatrical contract with David Belasco, which provides that Dempsey may stop at any stage and get her share of the money, made this statement before the couple left the home of Mrs. Belasco, Thursday, December 10, in payment for the $10,000 advance.

Wednesday evening Dempsey and found out that they had been offered a contract in another way, and whether they did not have interests in common.

This probably talked about the possible state of affairs in Grand Rapids and this naturally was the reason they got together in strict privacy.

The clause in the Belasco contract giving Dempsey the right to retire from the show at any time, after a certain engagement was inserted at the ex-champ's insistence. When it was pointed out that stage work might interfere seriously with a Dempsey fight in the immediate future—in September, for instance—Mike Taylor made a rather significant remark.

"He'll be in shape to fight," she said.

The actual signing of the theatrical contract, it seemed, was postponed until after Dempsey had talked with Richard yesterday. Miss Taylor didn't say that her Jack was waiting to get

By the Just Kids Safety Club Editor

A ROSTER of the "Just Kids Safety Club" is being prepared. The Star office is receiving names of children who wish to see their names in the club and the names must be printed in the paper. We will print a list of some of the names whose names begin with A. This does not include those who have been registered from out of the last week.

Now about this "prize" thing. Many of you are coming in asking about it. Whoever started the thing had a "prize" in mind. For there was never a word of the Star office about such a thing. One Safety Club button is as good as another, and so is a badge.

MORE SMELT THAN EVER

COMING UP SANDY RIVER

Portland, Ore.—One of the largest runs of smelt on record was recorded here this year when for three weeks the silver hordes of fish steadily pushed upward to their spawning grounds in the reaches of the Sandy River headwaters.

Visitors to this region during the smelt run can see thousands of people day after day lined up on both banks of the river steadily dipping their nets into the numberless schools of tiny fish.

It is thought that the tremendous catches made upon the smelt when they run in the Sandy River each year must necessarily diminish their number with the passing of the years, yet this season's run has been one of the largest ever beheld according to the records of the state game commission.

Details of Program Are Announced for 6th Annual Harding High May Festival

Event Scheduled at Grand Theater, Wednesday, May 9: Production, Given Under Direction of Miss Rachel McAfee. Expected To Surpass All Former Entertainments

Harding High School's sixth May festival, to be given at the Grand Theater, with matinee and night performances Wednesday, May 9, will be a dance program in the form of a health masque, based on the story of Pandora's box, with Miss Thelma Barton portraying the role of Pandora. It was announced today.

Interest in the presentation will of course center on the crowning of the May Queen, Miss Katherine Emon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Emon, having been chosen for that honor this year. The crown will be placed on her head by her maid of honor, Miss Mary Fitzworth, defeated candidate for the position of May Queen. The contestants will be the 25 members of the Kinesian Club, an organization comprising girls who elect gymnastic work as a senior subject.

Directed by Miss McAfee, the professional crowning of the May Queen and the pageant as well as the designing of dances and the costumes are under direction of Miss Rachel McAfee physical education instructor. This is the sixth production of the kind Miss McAfee has given here. In the last four years the May Festival has been alternated with a gymnastic demonstration.

The dramatic interest and beauty of costumes are expected to surpass all other presentations Miss McAfee has given, the entire masque being based on what is known as the natural rhythm method of dancing. Interpretation, costumes and dances are all of Miss McAfee's design.

Other honored positions in the professional which precedes crowning of the May Queen are held by Dorothy Ziegler, Helen Ward, Thelma Barton and Virginia Hoffmeyer, who will serve as ladies-in-waiting, and Dorothy Hay and Caroline King, Betty and Jean Foster, Alice Jean Schell, Patricia Dodd, Nancy Wright and Thomas McAfee Bishop, who will represent children of the May Queen's court.

P-T-A CONVENTION CLOSES SATURDAY

Round Table Conference on Rural Life Scheduled at Today's Session

Cleveland, May 4.—A round table conference on rural life, with reports on the findings of the rural life seasons, which were completed preliminary to the thirty-second annual convention of the National Farm-Teacher Association, now in progress here, was to be held today.

Other sessions included presentation of new officers and the holding of resolutions. The final general session of the Congress will be held tonight.

The convention closes Saturday following a meeting of the board of managers during which the plan of the 1925 convention is to be chosen.

Dr. Garry A. Myers of Cleveland college, speaking before the Congress Thursday on "How We Annoy Our Children," advised parents not to " nag." "Constant nagging is bad," Dr. Myers asserted. "When we grow up we forget a child's way of looking at things. Don't try to make your child another 'you'—one is enough."

RUSH EXTRA TROOPS TO BATTLE CHINESE

Japanese Fighting Valiantly Against Heavy Odds at Tainan

Taipei, May 4.—With the battle between Japanese troops and Chinese Nationalist soldiers raging at Tainan, five additional Japanese troops have been sent to China as reinforcements, the War Office announced today.

Three thousand Japanese troops are entrenched in war formation at Tainan. They are fighting valiantly against heavy odds. The Nationalists outnumber them many times.

The Nationalists suffered heavy losses in their first clash with the Japanese. One hundred were killed and many wounded. The Japanese suffered one death, 20 wounded and one missing.

The number of casualties resulting from the subsequent fighting still is unknown. It is believed that losses on both sides were heavy as the fighting was fierce and almost continuous.

GOES TO HAWAII

Marion Man Enlisted in Air Corps Leaves for Post of Duty

William R. Polzell, Marion man who recently enlisted with the air corps branch of the regular army, has been assigned to duty with troops in Hawaii and sailed from New York City yesterday for Honolulu en route the U. S. Army transport Cambria, according to word received today from the army information service.

Upon his arrival in Honolulu, Polzell, with other young men who sailed with him, will be assigned to units in the Hawaiian Islands located at points which generally lie adjacent to famous resorts and tourist shrines.

Polzell, enlisted as a private, will remain in the Hawaiian department approximately two years, when he will be returned to the United States for discharge.

By W. S. COUSINS

International News Service Financial Editor

New York, May 4.—The industrial stocks forged ahead in all sections of the stock market today, in an aggressive buying movement which clogged the mechanism of the stock exchange. A score or more of the best known stocks with General Motors in the lead, established new high record prices for the year, and were not inclined to give ground under a heavy load of profit taking.

No unexpressed feeling stirred up by the financial district with respect to the expansion in speculative borrowings to close to five billion dollars.

Comments on the bankers went to show that a large volume of bank deposits would have no steady employment if it were not for the huge expansion in collateral bond and stock borrowing, and in a falling market hundreds of millions of dollars of bank money would go begging.

The growing importance of the motor manufacturing companies, as power-makers was again reflected in the heavy buying demand for stocks of the well known companies. General

Motor, for the first time in its present form sold above 200, the stock making a new 6 1/2 point gain to 20 1/2 in the first few minutes of trading. A total of $14 a year, in cash dividends, is now being paid to those who are

NEW MODEL CAR TO BE EXHIBITED HERE

Burlington Railroad Co. Arranges To Show Modern Lounge Coach

One of the most remarkable cars in the history of the Burlington road and is being used this year for tourists making summer trips to California and other points of interest.

It will be set off on the Hooking Valley tracks on W. Center street for a short period of inspection next Wednesday. J. R. Van Dyke, general passenger agent of the road, will have charge of the car.

Instead of the usual open end for observation purposes, the car is built with the open porch effect. Special glass is used in the construction of the car to permit the unobstructed passage of ultraviolet rays of light.

As you say, Mr. McAdoo, what's the use of being a favorite son, anyway?

Al. Smith couldn't have run much better in the California Democratic primary if Senator Jim Reed hadn't campaigned out there.

It is evident that the Hon. William Gibbs McAdoo failed to spread the right variety of political ticks to the path of the Smith bandwagon.

Australia refuses to comply with the request of Hungary for the extradition of Bela Kun, on the ground that it would mean his death, which shows once more how sentiment may interfere with justice.

Waitresses employed in a coffee shop in the Grand Central station in New York City pay $19 a week for the privilege of working, their tips averaging $15 a day. The revolutions worked by the prohibition law seemingly are without number.

An Illinois congressman is championing a great national highway from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Why wouldn't it be better business to improve and maintain those we already have?

The United States has paid off $7,000,000,000 of its national debt, since 1919, but neither the states nor the municipalities of the land have exhibited the slightest indication that the thing is catching, more's the pity.

A citizen of Rockford, Illinois, who lost his memory in Chicago when attacked and robbed by two thugs, regained it in Texas. It's mighty lucky for him his memory was something that couldn't be pawned.

Brigadier General John T. Thompson, of the United States army, has won the $5,000 prize offered by the British for the best self-loading rifle. It's his rifle is as good as that, why do not we equip our army with it?

An eighty-eight-year-old farmer out in Indiana has started his seventy-fourth annual corn-planting and a man of ninety and a woman of seventy-two in the same state, have just been married. Hoosier youth will not be denied!

The government has apologized to Great Britain for the act of two coast patrol vessels which chased into the Port of St. George, Bermuda, after a rum-runner. If the commanders of our run chasers do not restrain their enthusiasm a bit they are liable to prove somewhat embarrassing to Washington.

Awful Cost of the Primary.

A few days ago we spoke of the futility of the primary as a piece of election machinery for the accomplishing of the correction of the evils for which it was held out as a panacea. At that time we voiced our intention to take up other phases of it and its workings which have proved disadvantageous to the public, and at this time we call attention to its cost.

Last week's primary in Marion county, in which 1,745 votes were cast, cost the taxpayers of the county $4,333.80, or 42.65 a vote. This cost to the vote, though shamefully high, was low compared to that of many of the political sub-divisions of the state. In some counties, the cost was twice as high as it was here. The cost to the tax-payers of the state has been estimated at $1,500,000. This, of course, like all the other costs, was the direct cost. But there are in all primaries other and far heavier costs.

There is the cost to the candidates. In the presidential primary this cost is not so high as in other primaries, for the candidates are not so many, and intensive campaigns are not waged in all states, but in the ordinary primary the cost to the candidates is staggering in the aggregate. In some primaries there may be eight or ten candidates on each side for a county office and the cost is in no way lessened, but rather increased, to each candidate by the number entered for nomination for the office sought.

Add the cost to the candidates to the cost to the tax-payers and yet the total is but a mere trifle compared with the cost to business and industry as a result of each primary campaign. It is true that a majority of those entitled to vote do not exercise their right of suffrage, and the proportion of non-voters is growing steadily, but even though they do not take advantage of their rights they must pay for them just the same, as they do pay by the thousands which politics and politicians make into their business affairs.

Politics has long been recognized as a business deterrent, but we seriously question if the extent to which it is a deterrent has ever been fully realized by people generally or that they have an adequate conception of its awful cost. And the cost of politics has been more than doubled by the primary, which has not alone failed to justify its right to be retained, but, on the other hand, has demonstrated that it is inimicable to good government and the best interests of the people.

A Victory for Conservation.

Complete returns from the French elections of Sunday simply serve to swell the magnitude of the sweeping victory for a stable government proffered by the early returns. The French may be highly emotional. As a matter of fact, they are, but they never permit their emotions to work toward the disadvantage of their pocketbooks, or whatever the French equivalent of what we call pocketbooks over here may be.

The French realized the conditions which obtained with the ultra-radical elements in power. They looked back and saw the franc dropping day after day and the credit of France falling lower and lower. They remembered how she was facing financial ruin. Then they recalled how Raymond Poincare had appeared upon the scene in 1919 in response to the country's call for financial guidance and the near-miracles he had performed in saving the country from disaster. Under such circumstances would they again vote the ultra-radicals into power? No! The work of the premier was not yet finished. Much remains to be done and he can do it only with unquestioned support. They must have figured this. One can almost vision them going forward to the support of the premier and electing a parliament to serve for the next four years which for lack of a better term may best be called conservative.

"It is but logical," says a Paris cable, "that France will now embark on a domestic policy of further fiscal liquidation and stabilization of the franc, and a foreign policy based on Poincare's formula of protecting French national rights, modified by Briand's sincere work toward the international consolidation of peace."

The campaign brought into the light the basis of Premier Poincare's financial plans. Following his wonderful feat in bringing the franc back from the edge of the abyss to stability and his importation of gold which flowed from France while she was fighting the Germans, he has accepted the inevitability of stabilization and it is generally expected that when parliament meets in June it will find placed before it eleven laws necessary to fix the gold value of the franc at five paper francs to one gold franc and to promulgate the free exchange of gold at that rate.

"But preceding that step Premier Poincare plans a big domestic loan for the purpose of reducing the current government debt to the Bank of France, which naturally will have the effect of reducing the circulation, which now stands just below 60,000,000,000 francs. This loan will probably be announced within a fortnight."

So it is that, where two weeks ago there were dire forebodings regarding the fate of the present French government, there is today renewed confidence in its ability to carry on, and the French premier, having come through the ordeal of the ballots with flying colors may now take up and carry on policies for which he did not have sufficient assured support before even to attempt. And while attention has been given largely to outlining his probable course in domestic affairs, there is little doubt but what his foreign policies, particularly his foreign financial policies, will be far broader than they have been before.

For the last year or two, there has been a lot of scare talk about possible achievements of the reds, not only in France, but also the world over, but in each and every case, when the test has come, it has demonstrated that the radical elements surely and steadily are losing ground. The people of the earth have been educated by soviet Russia to the evils of communism as they never were before.

Given a trout down at Dayton, a silk parachute eighty-four feet in diameter safely landed a 1,500-pound bomb from a height of 1,000 feet, which is taken to demonstrate that it would safely land eight persons of average weight in case of accident. The first seven needn't wait on us to fill the quota. Our natural diffidence still abides with us.

Each of the three American teachers found guilty by a Turkish court of breaking the law over there against the dissemination of religious propaganda was fined $15 and sentenced to three days in jail, the court however permitted the three to serve out their jail sentences in the American school in Broussa. Even though the punishment of the three has been made very light through the gallantry of the Turkish court, it is yet possible that they may now appreciate the fact that law-breaking is not conducive to the spread of religion.

40 Cities to be Visited By Three Westward-bound Planes on Goodwill Tour

Object Will Be To Call Attention to California and Strides It Is Making in Aviation; Ships Will Be Later Used on New Passenger Line

New York, May 4.—Three huge tri-motored biplane airplanes, built for speed and speed, will leave New York early next week on an aerial "goodwill" tour across the continent to California, making stops at 40 leading cities. The object of the tour is to call attention to California and the strides it is making in aviation.

The flight from New York to California will be made in three stages. The planes are to be occupied by prominent California business men, they are W. D. Longyear, treasurer of the American Bankers' Association and vice president of the Security Trust & Savings Bank of Los Angeles, Henry C. Maier, vice president of the Bank of Italy, who was active in the establishment of a school for aeronautics at Stanford University, and C. Zook Sutton, a manufacturer.

Each ship will also carry two pilots, an official of the Western Air Express and three newspaper representatives. At times motion picture and newspaper photographs will be carried. Programs will be held at the various cities enroute in co-operation with various chambers of commerce.

For Passenger Line

The planes, when they reach California, will be used on a new passenger air line between San Francisco and Los Angeles which the western air express will operate.

The schedule for the transcontinental tour calls for the following stops: Plane No. 1, northern route: Boston, Albany, Buffalo, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, Chicago, Moline, Omaha, Denver, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles. Plane No. 2, central route: Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Columbus, Dayton, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Kansas City, Wichita, Amarillo, El Paso, Tucson, Phoenix, Oakland, Los Angeles. Plane No. 3, southern route: Baltimore, Washington, Richmond, Columbia, Atlanta, Montgomery, New Orleans, Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, Midland, El Paso, Tucson, San Diego, Los Angeles.

The planes were recently constructed by the Atlantic Aircraft Corporation at Haebrack Heights, N. J. They are triple-motored, develop 1,275 horsepower, will carry a load of 5,000 pounds and develop a speed of better than 150 miles an hour. Their cabins have all the luxuries it is said, of the modern Pullman car. They are the largest and fastest commercial aircraft yet built in America and exceed in speed any commercial plane built in Europe. They have seats for 12 passengers and space for 1,000 pounds of mail or baggage.

NIGHT LIFE'S END SEEN IN CHICAGO

Fred Mann Ordered To Close Famous Rainbo Gardens; Dooms Others

Chicago, May 4.—The passing of Chicago's post-war "speakeasy" night life, which has offered an artificial retreat for the die-hard merry-makers of pre-Prohibition days, was seen today in the padlocking of Fred Mann's famous Rainbo Gardens.

Mann was given 10 days to wind up his business, dispose of food on hand and pay off his creditors. The place was ordered closed for one year by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley after Mann and his attorney, Benedict Short, acquiesced in an "ouster" decree. This action, in effect, left Mann in the light of pleading guilty, although it had not been charged that liquor was sold in his cabaret.

The injunction was granted on the testimony of undercover dry agents who told of seeing patrons imbibe from hip flasks after "set-ups" of gingerale and ice cubes had been furnished by Mann's waiters. In serving of "set-ups" it was held, is evidence of collusion to violate the prohibition law.

Dooms Other Cabarets

Mann's "surrender" practically dooms to darkness 12 other famous cafes and night clubs with similar cases pending against them.

The wealthy owner of Rainbo Gardens was the recognized leader in the fight to save Chicago's tottering night life. Now owners and proprietors of the time-worn palaces admit the outlook is dark.

"What's the use?" asked Mann, shrugging his shoulders. He is reported to have spent a "cool" million in outfitting the Rainbo Gardens, known as the "brightest spot in town."

After the injunction petitions were filed against Mann's place and 12 others, Mayor William Hale Thompson, close friend of Mann and a familiar figure at the "Gardens," made a trip to Washington, reportedly to protest to Secretary Mellon against the alleged discrimination against Chicago cabarets.

Mann declared that undercover dry agents did the drinking on the premises and that these agents tried in vain to entrap employees into selling or giving away drinks.

MANSFIELD PLANNING FOR AVIATION EVENT

Mayor Hazen Invited To Serve on Welcoming Committee May 9

An invitation to serve as a member of the welcoming committee at the observance of Mansfield Airport Day is to be held Wednesday, May 9. It has been received by Mayor Earl Hazen from J. Earl Potts, mayor of Mansfield.

In his letter, Mayor Potts announces plans have been made for bringing squadrons of airplanes from Dayton, Cleveland and Columbus and the Good-year airship "Pilot" from Akron for the event. He also announces that Colonel Clarence D. Chamberlin, transatlantic flier, will give a lecture. The colonel is also scheduled for a lecture in Marion on May 15 under auspices of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Mayor Potts also extends an invitation to all local citizens to attend and states that with exception of the Chamberlin lecture, there will be no charges, collections or solicitation of funds.

Mayor Hazen said this morning he would not be able to attend.

REALTOR APPEALS

Asks Court To Order Issuance of License by State Board

One of the few appeals taken from rulings of the Ohio State Board of Real Estate Examiners, of which J. W. Jacobs of this city is chairman, was reported yesterday in Common Pleas Court of Franklin County. Phillip Miner, head of Phillip Miner, Inc., Cleveland real estate firm, asked for a writ of mandamus compelling the board to issue him a license. He charged that the board has, without sufficient cause, refused to grant him the license. A temporary injunction was issued by Judge Lena F. Reynolds restraining the board from interfering with Miner's business pending hearing of the suit.

On The Remnant Counter

WITH THE CLERK

POOR UNCLE TOM

FROM that Michigan town that sent Ring Lardner out to tickle and soothe the reading world comes news that makes us wonder why and how. For in these 31 years we have all known John F. Stowe's mammoth "Uncle Tom's Cabin" under patch and weathered canvas and dusty copy house files the novel have galloped across the jump cakes of Ohio River, but little Eva has been jacked leavensword and Uncle Tom has said his "Goodbye, little Mary."

But, no more. The ancient piece has been stowed away by Mr. Stowe. For the first time in the aforementioned 31 years Niles has failed to see the tent show open with "Uncle Tom's Cabin." It has been shelved for a "new" production—

Ten Nights in a Barroom

Now why in the days of rampant whackamoochie carvers should "Ten Nights in a Barroom" supplant "Uncle Tom's Cabin?"

And, that's not all, for "Come home, dear Father" is being shouted across a New York stage. But, they take anything in New York.

SERVICE—PLUS

HAGGARD lines in newspaper people's faces are not for nothing. One of the first department whizzes by. Call the paper and find out where the fire is. The audience changes its way over our bumpy streets. Call the paper and see who is killed. The radio says the fire's true. Call the paper and see if it's true. The light ought to be about over. Call the paper and see who won.

Who wrote "Jolly Jingles"? It's a four-letter name. Call the newspaper and ask, Oh, yes, we're all used to that.

But, an eighth grader pulled the best one of the week yesterday morning.

Telephone rang—"Who was the eighteenth president?" Scouried about for information.

Telephone rang—Same voice—"Who is secretary of war?" Answered, "Well, who is secretary of labor?"

Telephone rang—Same voice again—"How many delegates to the Republican convention?" How many to the Democratic convention? Well, how many votes does it take to nominate a candidate?

"Say," answers the perspiring editor, "are you just getting out that cipher lesson?"

"No," comes the solution, "but we're having an examination this morning and I didn't know these things. Thanks."

MR. CONNOLLY

WE all hear more or less of Mr. One-Eye Connolly if we read the important news of the day—not because Mr. One-Eye Connolly is important, but because he has a faculty of being able to get into important events by hook or crook.

The New York Times tells how Mr. Connolly made one unsuccessful attempt to storm the grandstand at the Eternal Light when it was visited by the transatlantic liner Monday. "He came early in point-spread overalls and jumper, bearing a paint brush and a pail full of paint, challenged at the gate, he pointed at some trim on the speaker's stand and he had orders to touch it up. He was admitted."

"Connolly went over close to the speaker's stand, picked a good seat and sat on it. He was hardly there when another man in jumpers, with a paint can and brush, came along and said he had been ordered to paint the trim on the stand. He was barred. The second painter, catching sight of the first one, shouted:

"That's One-Eye Connolly, the gate crasher. Are you going to let a guy like that show you up?"

"The gate people thereupon threw One-Eye Connolly out and let the second painter, disguised, almost, immediately. One man said there was something about his walk which strongly resembled the gait of Tammany Young, Connolly's only rival as a gate crasher."

"It was reported later that Connolly had got lost in the stand bearing a ukulele and claiming membership in the band."

PRESENTS PROGRAM

Mrs. Martha Smith presided for the program presented at the monthly meeting of members of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, Wesley M. E. Church, yesterday afternoon at the church. Annual note box opening took place at that time. The next meeting will be held June 7 at the church.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Miller are parents of a son born yesterday morning at their home, 612 Woodrow. A son was born this morning at City Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. John Roseberry, 312 S. High.

ELECT LEADERS

King's Daughters Choose Officers at Meeting Last Night

Mrs. James S. Bonner was elected leader at the meeting of members of the King's Daughters, last night at the home of Mrs. S. M. McInley, S. Prospect. Mrs. E. H. Bonner was chosen first assistant leader, Mrs. E. A. Mautz, second assistant leader, Mrs. E. A. Mautz, recording secretary, Miss Leona Bailey, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. J. F. Neighart, treasurer.

Mrs. Bonner and Mrs. Bonner were elected delegates to the King's

NAME ON COUPON

The Star has one pattern, No. 3528, large size, which it is holding for one of its subscribers.

Unable to make out the name on the coupon, written in a faint hand with a light pencil, the star Bureau at New York sent the pattern on to Marion asking that we find the owner.

Initials on the coupon are believed to be "H. J." If the subscriber who sent in the order for pattern No. 3528 will call at the editorial department of The Star the pattern will be gladly turned over to her.

Daughters group meeting at Bayview, May 8 and Mrs. Mautz and Mrs. Neighart were chosen alternates. It was decided to contribute $15 towards improvements on the Maplecrest, King's Daughters Home, at Bayview. Two names were voted on for membership.

Mrs. Walter Miles, city union leader, gave an interesting talk on the City King's Daughters work, and Miss Alice Doughty gave a paper, "The Ideal Suburban."

Arrangements were made for the annual circle picnic at Garfield Park Wednesday, June 13, and for a work meeting at Lippworth M. E. Church in two weeks.

WILL GET CHARTERS

Five Memorial Baptist Classes Plan To Obtain Rosters

Donald Hatfield conducted devotionals at the meeting of members of the Philadelphia and Barren Bible Classes, Five Memorial Baptist Church, last night at the home of Miss Junia Sanderson, Davidson. It was decided to obtain charters for both classes. Music and a contest, in which honors went to Miss Mary Upton, were enjoyed during a social hour. Refreshments were served. Guests of the class were Misses Elaine Deuman and Mary Upton, Charles Payne and William Gattichell. The next regular meeting will be held June 5.

GUESTS AT DINNER

New Members of Marion Club Entertained at Social Event

Twenty members who have been enrolled in the club since the first of the year were guests of the older members of the Marion Club at a dinner held in the dining room at the club quarters last night.

Dr. C. J. Altmeyer explained that the purpose of the dinner was to welcome the new members and aid them in becoming better acquainted with their fellow members. The new members were introduced by James Smith, president of the club.

At the conclusion of the dinner, the tables were cleared and the remainder of the evening was spent with cards.

Personal Mention

Dr. C. J. Nichols, 5212 N. State, left yesterday afternoon for Columbus, where he will spend the remainder of the week with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Humberly, 221 Norwiche.

Mrs. Jeanne Morrey, mother of Miss Anna D. Wehrle, of the Dr. F. C. Smith Clinic, E. Church, will sail from Boulogne, France, May 16 and will arrive here May 26. She expects to make her home in Marion. Miss Wehrle a native of Switzerland, has been a resident of this country since Oct. 6, 1925.

Misses Lavonia and Viola Fracock, Belmont, attended the opera at Cleveland last night.

Mrs. Kathryn Grundish, 536 W. Center, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lucas of near Marion, have returned home after a motor trip to Campbellsville, Ky., where they visited Mrs. Lucas' parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Smith.

W. B. Long, Winchurst, has returned from Cleveland where he attended the production of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Glumpe of St. Louis are guests at the home of the former's nephew, Edward Glumpe, on N. Oak. Mrs. Glumpe will remain for a visit here while her husband attends the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors' convention in Cleveland.

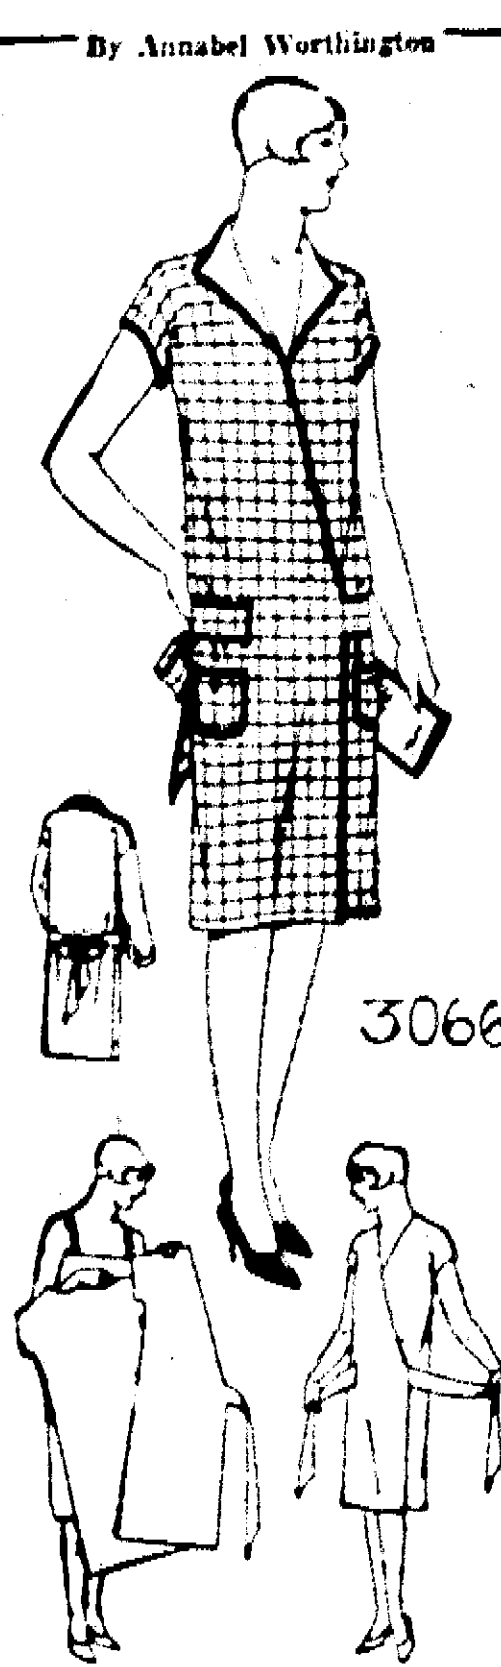

Members of the Willing Workers Class of Calvary Evangelical Church met last night at the home of Mrs. Frank Lyman, Bellevue. After a short business meeting, contests were held, honors being won by Misses Avis Underwood and Mary Bodley. Mrs. Vern Barahall and Mrs. W. S. Anderson were guests of the class. An entertaining reading was given by Mrs. Anderson. The hostess was assisted in serving by Miss Pauline Thomas and Miss Irene Haruff. June 7 the class will hold its next meeting.

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

We found my father propped against his pillows, looking infinitely less alarming than he had done upon the preceding evening. But he was still worn and pallid, and Lillian made no mention of her errand until he had finished his breakfast. Then she looked at me with a twisted little grin.

Sober save the red-headed man knew of his presence in the farmhouse. Then I held it out to my father, while Lilian and Allen pressed close to his shoulder. And then I heard a simultaneous exclamation:

"K. seven! He is K. seven!"
